

BLANKS AND PRIZES.
Like a pilgrim of old, I have roamed to and fro,
Heard maxims both foolish and wise,
And ever have found amidst the high and the low,
There were always two blanks to a prize.
A drum in a band always makes the most sound,
And a hypocrite makes the most noise,
And in every profession the whole world around,
There are twenty-five blanks to a prize.
With money to spend we have friends by the score,
To flatter us, fawn and advise,
But how soon we find, if we chance to be poor,
There are sixty-five blanks to a prize.
If to settle a grievance to law we resort,
What quibbles and cavils arise,
But one thing is certain, in every court
There are ninety-five blanks to a prize.
There are other things, too, in a journey through life,
Which the dullest may see if he tries,
But the risk is the greatest in choosing a wife,
There are ninety-nine blanks to a prize.

COW MUSIC.—The cow has at least four tones or lows. First there is her alarmed or distressed low, when deprived of her calf or separated from her mates—her low of affection. Then there is her call of hunger, a petition for food, sometimes full of impatience, or her answer to the farmer's call, full of eagerness. Then there is that peculiar frenzied bawl she utters on smelling blood, which causes every member of the herd to lift its head and hasten to the spot—the native cry of the clan. When she is gored or in great danger she bawls also, but that is different. And lastly, there is that long sonorous volley she lets off on the hills or in the yard, or along the highway, and which seems to be expressive of a kind of unrest and vague longing—the longing of the imprisoned to for her lost identity.—She sends her voice forth so that every god on Mount Olympus can hear her plaint.—She makes this sound in the morning, especially in the spring, as she goes forth to graze.

The Marquis of Waterford annoys railroad managers by always riding third-class, as it diminishes their first and second class travel. One day the Marquis appeared at Waterford station and bought a third class ticket to Dublin. The railway men thought to teach him a lesson, and for that purpose sat a sweep down beside him in the car, thinking to drive him out. The Marquis surveyed his traveling companion for a moment, and then started for the ticket office. "Give me a first class ticket to Dublin," said he. They thought they had him, sure, but he simply returned to the third-class car, and making the sweep a present of the ticket, escorted him and his brushes to the first-class carriage, and leaving him there, returned to his favorite compartment.

ONE EFFECT OF HARD TIMES.—It is a curious peculiarity of those who feel the pressing need of economizing that they begin to retrench by not paying their doctors' bills and by giving up their pews in church. Many a man who, when first attacked by typhoid fever, is perfectly willing to give anything to be carried safely through, changes his mind when he is on his feet again, and thinks the doctor is trying to swindle him out of a large fee, when there was really nothing the matter with him. These old lines are always true:
The devil was sick, the devil a monk would be;
The devil got well, the devil a monk was he.

CAKED BAG IN COW.—(L. R. M.): Give 1 pound Epsom salts with an ounce of ginger in two quarts of warm gruel, and follow up by a daily dose of 1 dram iodide of potassium and 1 ounce nitrate of potash. If the udder is hot and tender, bathe for an hour at a time with warm water, rubbing on a little alcohol when it is stopped, and repeating this twice a day. If there is little heat or pain when handled, rub the affected quarter daily with a mixture of three ounces compound tincture of iodine and six ounces camphorated spirit. If any milk or other liquid forms on the quarter, draw it off.—New York Tribune.

THUMPS IN HORSES.—C. R., Rickreal, Oregon.—I would ask Dr. Paaren what is the cause of the disease in horses known as the thumps, and what is the remedy or cure, if there be any.
Answer.—These so-called thumps in horses are supposed to be caused from over-driving and oppression, paralyzing the accessory nerve. Digitalis is used with success in such cases. It is given in doses of from ten to thirty grains, daily for five or six successive days. All causes of excitement to the animal should be avoided.—N. Y. L. S. Journal.

"Jake, what you got such fine 'broidered shirts as dat you had on at de meeting las' night?" asked Pete, as Jake stood at the village post office door trying to stick a bent brass pin into the back of his paper collar and fasten that article in position. "You doesn't pear to' prelate my circumstances, Pete," "I knows dat you ain't yearned 'nuff money to buy de buttons on dat shirt sense I know'd yo' 'prelates dat," retorted Pete. "You's off de track, Pete, and dar you'll stay till your mudder gits ter be a washer-woman. You hear dat?"

He was a well-meaning man, but they had been married a long while, and when he playfully asked her what was next to nothing, she sarcastically answered that at this season of the year she thought his winter flannels were.

"Handsome is as handsome does," said a Chicago man to his wife. "Yes," she replied, in a winning tone, "for instance, a husband who is always ready to hand some money to his wife."
